Plymouth, Massachusetts - Copley Fine Art Auctions held their eighth annual Sporting Sale on July 25 and 26 at the Radisson Hotel in Plymouth, Massachusetts. Filling the adjoining room were booths for twenty of the nation's leading decoy and sporting art dealers and important non-profit organizations including the Museum of American Bird Art. The sale landed within the presale estimate at $2.3 million. Participation was impressive with over 1050 registered bidders, 137 of which were in attendance.

The decoy sale saw strong results, including the top two decoys lots of the summer which brought $330,000 and $168,000. Works by Frank W. Benson and Ogden M. Pleissner topped the painting sale at $360,000 and $198,000. Nineteen lots sold for over $10,000. Because of Copley Fine Art Auctions' reputation for service and attention to detail, attendance at the sale filled the auction room and collectors appreciated the conviviality of the cocktail preview complete with oysters and live music.

This summer's sale offered decoys from numerous important collections, including birds hailing from the collections of William J. Mackey, James McCleery, George Ross Starr, and Adele Earnest, among other early greats in the decoy collecting world. The notable carvings sold featured works by luminaries including Nathan Cobb, Jr., Gus Wilson, Shang Wheeler, August Haas, Obediah Verity and family, Fred Nichols, the Ward Brothers, and many others. Notable painting sales included works by Frank W. Benson, Ogden M. Pleissner, Aiden L. Ripley, John Frost, Louis A. Fuertes, Robert Abbett, and Roland H. Clark, among others.

Copley Fine Art Auctions' next sale, The Winter Sale 2015, will be held February 12 in Charleston, SC. The auction will coincide with the Southeastern Wildlife Exposition (SEWE), with consignments accepted through the end of October or until full.
